SHOT WIFE, KILLED SELF

Tragedy in Walker Street Home
Sunday Afternoon

Joseph F. King, aged 41 years, and a dangerous list, the doctors entertain hope for her recovery. She was shot at close range, the bullet entering her left breast.

King shot himself through the right temple. He was taken in the ambulance to St. John's hospital, but died shortly after arriving there.

While the exact cause of the tragedy is not known it is understood that it was a domestic quarrel.

Mrs. King was hurried to the Lowell hospital and although she is on the

WAS KNOCKED DOWN

Woman Injured by Fire Horses in West Sixth Street

Mrs. Adelbert Rivet of 33 Fred street suffered a very painful accident and luckily escaped death this afternoon when she was run down by fire horses.

The young woman was returning from work and was crossing West Sixth street at the junction of Allen and Lacey streets. George Schmidt, driver for hook and ladder company No. 1, was exercising his three horses which were going at a fair rate of speed. As far as could be feared when Mrs. Rivet crossed the street the driver tried to bring his horses to a full stop but his efforts were fruitless and the young woman was struck down and rolled in front of the three heavy horses.

The driver, fortunately, turned his horses the other way, and if he had not been quick in doing so the woman would surely have been trampled to death. As it was, however, she suffered several bad bruises about the head. She was removed to John T. Savage's drug store in Lakeview avenue and there Dr. D. T. Chagnon treated her. She was later removed to her home in Fred street. It is not believed her injuries are serious.

MUNICIPAL BOARD

Considers Department
Estimates

The municipal council met this afternoon at city hall for the purpose of considering the estimates of expenses of the different departments and the making of appropriations for the same.

Each alderman submitted a report of the several departments under his charge for the past year and also an estimate of what it would cost to run his several departments this year.

Heretofore printed reports of the expenses of the different departments for the ensuing year were distributed, but this year the only persons to have lists were the members of the council.

GIVEN NEW TRIAL

Andrews Was Convicted of Murder

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5.—The Pennsylvania supreme court today granted a new trial to J. W. Andrews, former superintendent of the Warren Pa. waterworks, who was convicted after a sensational trial of first degree murder for the death of Emily Annan on January 17, 1911. Andrews was shot to death near the waterworks.

After Andrews had been convicted a woman named Stella Dodge was taken into custody at Philadelphia on the strength of a statement alleged to have been made by her that she had killed a man. The woman was taken to Warren where she repudiated the statement.

Miss Lucy Douthett of St. Johnsbury, Vt. is the guest of her sister and brother, Mrs. Jeanne Lemerise and Mr. Arthur Douthett of Lakeview avenue. The young woman who has many friends in this city was received at the railroad station Saturday night and was given an ovation by some 15 close friends. The party then repaired to the home of Mrs. Lemerise where a social hour was held.

MOFFATT'S PENSION

Mayor O'Donnell Stops Payment of
it Pending Investigation

Mayor O'Donnell in approving last week's police department pay roll disapproved the item calling for the installment of the pension of Ex-Superintendent of Police William B. Moffatt.

When the latter appeared before the city treasurer this morning for the purpose of collecting his pension, he was informed of the mayor's action and immediately sought an explanation from his honor.

The latter stated to him that he doubted the legality of Mr. Moffatt's pension inasmuch as the former superintendent is drawing $1000 per year or half the salary of a superintendent rather than half the salary of a patrolman. His honor stated that there has been so much discussion over that particular matter that he considered it proper to have the matter settled one way or another at this time.

EARLY MORNING FIRE

Drove Occupants of House to Street
in Their Night Clothes

A lively fire broke out early this morning in the rear of the store of Frank K. Kahanowicz, 295 Central street and the quick work of the members of the fire department prevented the flames from causing considerable damage.

The flames were noticed at 1:20 o'clock and an alarm was sent in from box 53. When the firemen arrived which had started near the chimney had found their way to the roof. A number of people living in the house ran out in their night clothes, and one woman became bewildered and was cared for by the police. The property is owned by Mrs. A. C. Wheelock and is insured through the agency of Fred C. Church.

A telephone alarm was sent in at 7 o'clock this morning for a slight blaze on the roof of the Harrington building in Central street. A few sparks from the chimney was the cause of the fire, but there was little damage.

BOMB EXAMINED

POLICE TRYING TO FIND NUR-DERER OF MRS. TAYLOR

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Close examination of the materials of the bomb that killed Mrs. Helen Taylor in her home on West 77th street on Saturday evening are expected by the police today to furnish clues that will lead to the arrest of the murderer, Charles M. Dickinson, who was in the apartment when Mrs. Taylor was killed, and of himself for arraignment today before Coroner Feltberg charged with the homicide of Mrs. Taylor. Dickinson says that when Mrs. Taylor attempted to open a package which a messenger boy had brought there was a blinding flash and that when he recovered from the shock the woman lay dead on the floor.

INSANE MAN KILLED TWO

NORTH ADAMS, Feb. 5.—Suddenly becoming insane, it is believed, Andrew Culbert, aged 32, section foreman of a force of House of Representatives, murdered John Sulzberger, aged 28, and Edward Williams, aged 62, members of his crew, last night, and later killed himself by shooting. The affair occurred at Culbert's home.

WERE SWEEPED AWAY Man and Woman Went Down With Great Ice Bridge

NARRAGANSETT, Feb. 4.—The ice bridge which had been built across the Narragansett river last night, and which had been used by a large number of people, was swept away this morning. The bridge was built by a group of men who had been working on the river for some time. The bridge was made of ice and was about 100 feet long. It was used by a large number of people who had been crossing the river. The bridge was swept away by a large amount of ice which had been moving down the river. The ice was about 10 feet high and was moving very fast. The bridge was swept away in a matter of minutes. The people who were on the bridge were all saved. They were all taken to the shore by a small boat. The bridge was built by a group of men who had been working on the river for some time. The bridge was made of ice and was about 100 feet long. During the last 10 years, the women of Portland followed the going and coming of the season of the fashions. The last year of this course is really a number of practical lessons made up of the latest fashions of the season. These in three weeks time of two lessons each week for 10 weeks. The course is a practical course of instruction in the art of garment construction, and as in the other courses of this kind, a number of drawings and patterns that could not be obtained in the ordinary course of events are given.

Two weeks of work. There has been a half course in the kind of drawing which gives instruction in the drawing of the body, limbs and designs. Work is taken up in practical and also in colors. This course has appeared to many young ladies of the city and it is believed that this is a most fortunate opportunity for both young women and young men of this city to realize the demands of artistic designing.

Chemistry Course
Hardly any branch of applied science plays so important a part in our industrial world as chemistry. Many materials commonly encountered in our lives are made, and with the use of chemical analysis, the composition of substances is determined. The study of chemistry is the study of the properties of matter, the laws governing its behavior, and the changes it undergoes. It is a science that has led to the development of many of the products and processes that we use in our daily lives. The study of chemistry is a fascinating and rewarding experience that can lead to a wide range of career opportunities. It is a science that is constantly evolving, and it is a science that is essential to our understanding of the world around us. The study of chemistry is a science that is both challenging and rewarding, and it is a science that is essential to our understanding of the world around us. The study of chemistry is a science that is both challenging and rewarding, and it is a science that is essential to our understanding of the world around us.

year courses in machine and mechanical drawing has been laid out. It first gives a foundation of the principles of mechanical drawing and follows with the student's work in drawing directly from parts of machines, preparing both the detail and the assembly drawings.

conveying. This can be said to express to the pattern maker or machinist his intentions as to the construction of any given machine.

Machine Shop Course
The machine shop course is almost self-explanatory. The school has one of the largest machine shops for instructional purposes in this vicinity. Nearly half of the standard machine tools are represented and it is possible to do almost any type of job within the range of the tools. Thus it becomes possible for anyone who may be working on the bench during the day to learn to use a planer, a lathe or any tool, and to make the form to which the machine tool is adapted, such as a taper, a shoulder, a chamfer, a groove, a thread, etc. A "one tool" approach, through this course, breaks down the barrier between the specialist and the more intelligent generalist. It becomes an individual's responsibility to determine the type of machine tool to use in a particular machine tool. One of the most important facts course by the students in mechanical drawing and mechanism that is training for a mechanical specialist or mechanic.

The three classes in the finishing department of the various woolen and worsted mills of this vicinity an evening course is provided. Machine work and applications are by lectures and discussions pertaining to the many factors given to produce and worsted fabrics. The action of soaps, water, alkali, heat and cold upon wools in relation to the combination of this material with other fibers used in commerce is carefully studied. This course also helps the student to broaden his knowledge of textile fibers.

It is not possible to have on the average six or six and a half medals awarded each year. In several cases young men have obtained several medals by pursuing different courses during successive years. This demonstrates that the students who have ambitions may make a specialty of the course in the maritime branch of the technical branches of the industry. The Government, from the evening classes, shows most convincingly that the school has done for the improvement of the daily life of working men and women of this city and district. It would be impossible to estimate in dollars and cents just how much the Government has done for the improvement of the lives of the young men and women of this city and district. The industry itself has, which cannot be denied, indirectly advanced for the city.

pare the Mixture.

Put this out and put in some safe place for it is valuable and worth more than anything else in the world if you should have an attack of stomach or bladder trouble or any derangement of the stomach or kidneys whatever.

The prescription is simple and can be made up by anyone at home. The ingredients can be had at any good prescription pharmacy and all that is necessary is to shake them well in a bottle.

Here it is: Fluid Extract Juniper Berries, one ounce; Compound Fluid Extract, one ounce; Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, four ounces. Take a teaspoonful before each meal, and at bedtime. A few doses is said to relieve almost any case of stomach or bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain between the kidneys, etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism because of its direct and positive action upon digestion and the eliminative tissues of the kidneys. It gives them life and power to get rid of such the poisonous waste matter as the vile acid from the blood, affecting the worst forms of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The treatment acts upon the stomach and liver and is used also extensively for relieving dyspepsia and indigestion. Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites cleans and enriches the blood. There is nothing better than Sawbrot and Juniper Berries for the kidneys.

POOR LITTLE SCOOP—HIS NOSE FOR NEWS LEADS HIM INTO A "TOUCH"

GEORGE AND MARY FACTORIES BURNED

England's King and Queen Given Philadelphia Fire Caused Loss of Over Million Dollars

LONDON, Feb. 4.—King George and Queen Mary returned to England today after the most memorable journey ever undertaken together by a king and queen of Great Britain and Ireland. After an absence of three months, during which they had been crowned emperor and empress of India and had received the homage of their subjects in the vast eastern empire, they were given a hearty welcome back to London.

Their arrival was the first time since the coronation of King George V. in 1901 that a king and queen of Great Britain and Ireland had returned to their native land. The king and queen were met at the Victoria station by a large number of officials and members of the royal household. They were then driven to the palace by a motorcade.

The king and queen were accompanied by their children, the Prince of Wales and the Princess Mary. They were also accompanied by a large number of officials and members of the royal household. A PAGE OF FUN

“What?” And now, dark, “You must go to the library and ask people about it.”

“What? No ask anything of them, no anyone who can’t mind. Not in my life, sweetheart. No one can. If he’s got a finger in this or that, he can come to me, son.”

Nothing Doing.

AFTER the effects of the Jefferson Hotel explosion had subsided, nearly two hundred guests, including the president, returned to Stinkert, and on the way I took it:

"Well, are there any Presidential casualties in this part of Long Island?"

"Yes, many fellows to go to the White House," he quipped.

"Yes?"

"I haven't heard of any."

"I surely thought there'd be one or two."

The man seemed to do a heap of Cunkler until he had put me down as a farm hand, and had very little to say. Five hours later he staggered to bed:

"After these Presidential casualties, I'm surprised."

"Why?"

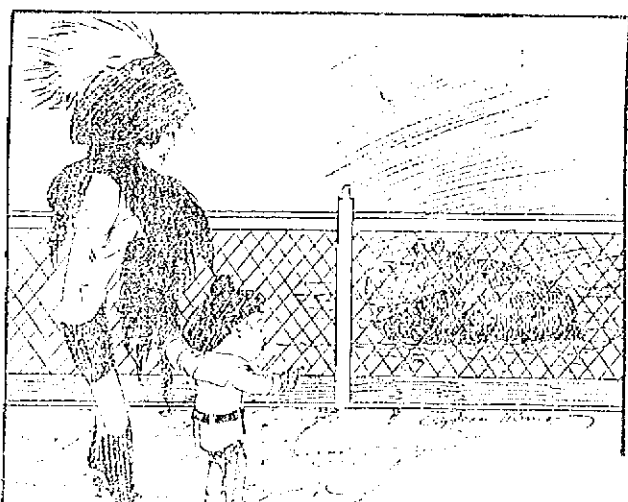

"I think I've got one. It's old Bill Huggins. What a race in it!"

"Why the horse?"

"No good," he said as he shook his head. "Bill has a cold and a sore eye, and has been feeling chilly all day. Let him hold some out if this thing looked good to him. But it won't."

"Then he doesn't hunker for home?"

"Honest answer? Why, Bill's had horses hooped upon him like a load of hay for the last thirty years. He's the only man for a mile around that can predict a year ahead as to when the 'trick' is coming."

WORDS OF GREAT BURDEN.

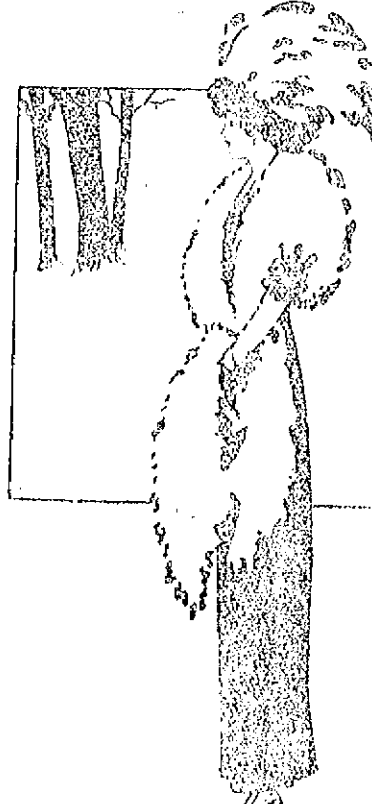

John. What is that queer feeling about in the big rock, mamma?

Edith. Why, my dear, that is the holy impulse. The rock brought it out.

John. Mamma, the next time you walk the path around, why don't you notice that same rock?

AMONG the passengers in the first-class car was a middle-aged woman with a boy about five years old beside her. His questions and pranks attracted general attention. He wanted to walk up and down the aisle; he wanted to stand on the seat; he wanted to sit on her lap; he wanted sweets and candy. Then he asked about his papa was; when they would be home; why the man opposite had no hair on his head; why the next man to him was fat.

A Mere Incident.

"How did I come to be a member of the House at Washington?" repeated the man to the smoking car who had said that he was no politician. "My dear, sir, my accident came about through one of the strangest of incidents. One day I was paid $25,000 for a piece of land. I was getting the money ready for the bank when a friend came in and said:

" 'Pete, the country needs you.'

" 'But it's got me,' I replied.

" 'But not in Congress.'

" 'But I'm no politician.'

" 'That's why the country wants you in Congress. You are neither a politician nor a grafter. Pete, the American eagle is fairly screaming for you.'

" 'I'd like to oblige anybody, but how is it to be done?'

" 'Send me that twenty thousand to pay into an oil well.'

" 'Jim, you shall have it, and that without security. Take it, and may the natives be vegetarians.'

"How did I come to be a member of the well prove a gusher."

"And you handed it over?" was asked.

"I did."

"And with the money Jim—?"

"I never asked, sir."

"But you must have had more or less curiosity about the oil well?"

"Not the slightest, sir."

"But, you see—?"

"No, sir, I don't see. I was nominated, elected and went right to work for the country, and up to the present moment I haven't given the oil well a thought. I must make a note of it and ask Jim if it's a gusher."

WISE MISSIONARY.

HIS FLIGHT.

"Who's the chap over there wearing a straw hat and white trousers?"
"A spring."
"He's a magazine editor."
"Looks like an escaped inmate."
"Yes, in summer he goes about with a sealskin cap and a fur lined trench."

His Particular Friend.

His had a mourning band on his sleeve, and seemed to take great pains to draw attention to it, and the man waiting with him on the corner was emboldened to remark:

"I see that you mourn for somebody?"

"Yes, sir."

"Initiatives?"

"No, but almost the same thing. We were great chums."

"Ah, I see. Very proper for you to mourn him. Anything remarkable about him?"

"He was very particular in his dress—very."

"Wanted things just so, did he?"

"He did, and it was the cause of his death at last."

"How so?"

"He was on the 28th floor of a New York skyscraper when the building took fire and the stairs and elevators were cut off."

"Bad—bad."

"Number remarks jumped from the windows, but my friend took a look and refused."

"The height must have appalled him."

"Oh, no, sir. Some one had opened fire on the sidewalk, and my friend saw that if he jumped he would land in it and probably spot a second-story pair of pants, and so he preferred to die in the flames."

"I see, please sir. Noble young man. Almost a hero. Don't blame him a bit. If he had lived on I could have got him a place as a window cleaner in front of a tobacco store at five dollars a week."

FITTING PAY.
 "Your neighbor seems to be getting
 I fear from his business."
 "He ought to."
 "Why?"
 "His business is in reducing flesh."

Could Be Arranged.

WHEN I registered at a Roma hotel a few days ago," said the soap drummer, "the clerk gave me a looking over and whispered:

"'Divorce?'"

"'Yes,'"

"'The best lawyer?'"

"'For sure,'"

"'And the most kind-hearted judge?'"

"'That's it,'"

"'What's the grounds?'"

"'Taught her skilling on a man's lap,'"

"'Then it's a sure case for you. You can almost take the next train back,'"

"'But it was her father's lap,'" I explained.

"'For a minute the fellow was non-plussed, but then he rallied and said:

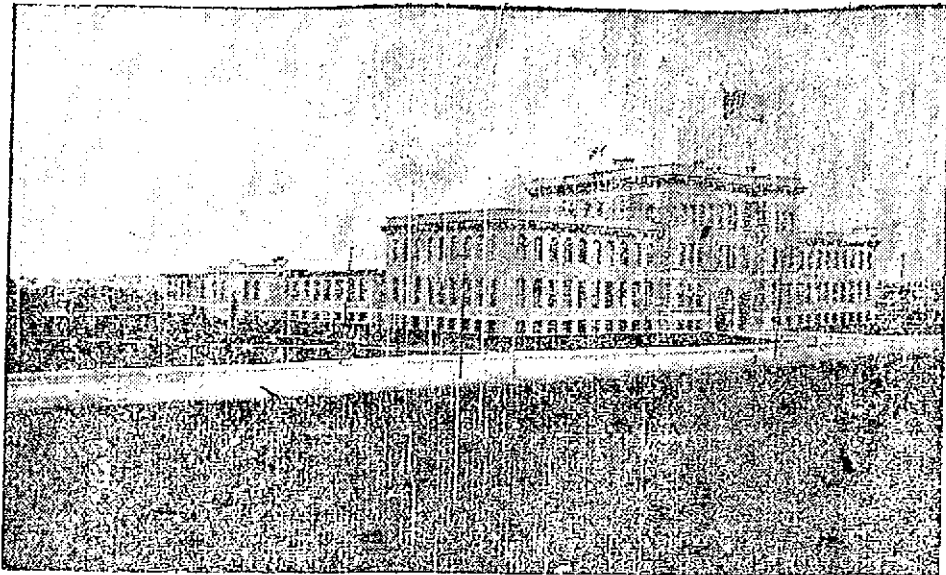

"'Oh, but that can all be arranged. Bring on the father and have him swear that he thought he was the family chauffeur at the time!'"

TEXTILE SCHOOL

THE LOWELL TEXTILE SCHOOL

Prosperous Institution for Instruction in Textile Arts--Best of its Kind

There are many mill operatives in Lowell who do not realize the opportunities for advancement offered at the Lowell Textile School on Macy street, a land and buildings of which are inventoried at $403,000 and the equipment at $225,000.

The courses of the evening school are arranged to meet the special needs of those engaged in the industry. They vary in length from one year to three and at the completion of each, the certificate of the school is awarded. For those desiring instruction in cotton yarn manufacture, a course of two years is offered. Various parts of the world, and forces it through all of the machines, begin to spinning frame and mule. For one who desires only a study of combing or carding or spinning, it is possible to take that part of the course in which he is particularly interested, although it is better to be for a spinner to learn something about the machines and processes that precede his own. To one who, all his life, has worked with one grade of cotton, an understanding of the other grades and grades of cotton with their properties, methods of cultivation, locollage where grown and used to which they are adapted, cannot but help to broaden his intellect and make him a more valuable man.

Study of Machines

A detailed study of the machines including speeds, drafts and settings explains and makes clear to the student the arbitrary orders of the mill overseer. There is not time in the mill for explanations as to why a certain change gear is used or how the draft constant is determined. The relative advantages of the many types of mechanisms are considered. In short, the "why" is added to the "how" of practice.

A similar course is conducted in the wool yarn department but it is divided into a two-year woollen yarn course and a three-year worsted yarn course. In the first courses the students at the first year pursue the same class work receiving instruction in the many kinds of wool, the varying properties of the fibers, trade terms, sorting, scouring, carding, etc. This work is followed by instruction in carding and mule spinning for the woollen students. Those desiring to study worsted yarn manufacture take up work on the worsted card, followed by gilling and combing and processes of top making. The last year of this course a study is made of worsted yarn manufacture on both the English and French systems. Thus in three years' time, of two evenings per week for twenty weeks, one may acquire a thorough course of instruction in worst yarn manufacturing, and as in the cotton course, obtain a knowledge of machines and processes that could not be obtained in the ordinary course of events in the mill.

For a number of years there has been offered a course in free hand drawing which gives instruction in the drawing from models, casts and designs. Work is taken up in charcoal and also in colors. This course has appealed to many young ladies of the city and it is believed that this is a most fortunate opportunity for the young women and young men of this city to acquire the elements of artistic designing.

Course in Designing

For one who is working in the design, pattern or weave room, the even-

His course in designing offers instruction in the great variety of weaves, in high construction and analysis. It is practically impossible under existing circumstances for one to acquire in any mill a knowledge of the construction of the many textile fabrics. Where one spends the greater portion of his life in only one or two mills, his knowledge of fabrics is confined to those made in the mills in which he may work. An evening course in designing would supplement the experience received during the day, thus broadening his people knowledge as well as making him better acquainted with the various uses which he works in.

Choosing following the design course and the teaching courses divided into either design or fashion and worsted weaving and knit, and Jacquard weaving. The purpose of these courses is to train students in these handicrafts. The courses are called weaving courses, but in reality they might more properly be called courses in bookbinding for particular attention is given to the bookbinding of the looms, the timing of the various parts and the adjustment necessary to produce desired results. Here again is an opportunity for students to gain familiarity with the machine, and that could not be obtained in any mill. Frequently students come to the classes with the knowledge that certain adjustments must be made upon a loom if certain results are to be obtained, but the reason for these is not known. The school offers them the machine, time and the instructor in order that the weaver or knitter must determine for himself the answer for these rules which he practices in his daily work. Not only can he know the loom upon which he works every day but he can study the operations of many other makes of looms.

Chemistry Course
Hardly any branch of applied science plays as important a part in our industrial world as chemistry. Many large plants employ the chemist as well as the physicist in the most advanced progress which is being made in the manufacture and application of dyestuffs. A basic knowledge of chemistry becomes an absolute necessity to the dyer, and about Laxmi are establishments employing men who require some knowledge of chemistry but who may not necessarily use it. Some find the knowledge of analytical chemistry helpful in their every day work. To meet these varying needs of our industrial community, the school offers a two-year course in General Chemistry—organic and inorganic. This may be followed by any one of three courses, viz., a three-year course in textile chemistry and dyeing, a two-year course in analytical chemistry and a four-year course in textile and analytical chemistry.

The engineering department has arranged its courses of elements of engineering, mechanical drawing and machine shop practice with the object of offering to those engaged in the mechanical and electrical departments of our mills, opportunities to learn something concerning the theory underlying the many practical methods which they carry into effect during the day.

Under the head of elements of engineering is given instruction in mechanics and mechanism of machines for one year, followed by a year's course on steam boilers and engines with the auxiliary apparatus found in a modern steam plant. In the third year, a course in electrical electricity takes up as far as time will permit instruction in alternating and direct current, generators, motors and apparatus.

For one having occasion to make a few small drawings for the purpose of illustration or instruction, or for one who is daily required to work on a drawing or blue print, the three year course in machine and mechanical drawing has been laid out. It first lays a foundation of the principles of mechanical drawing and follows with two years' work in drawing directly from parts of machines, preparing both the detail and the assembly drawing. Thus one learns to express to the pattern maker or machinist his instructions as to the construction of any given machine.

Machine Shop Course

The machine shop course is almost self-explanatory. The school has one of the best equipped shops for instruction purposes in this vicinity. Nearly all of the standard machine tools are represented in the shop, and the student can learn to operate almost any machine tool job within the range of the tools. Thus it becomes possible for one who may be working at the bench during the day to learn how to operate a lathe or other tool. The student can also acquire a knowledge of a planer, shaper, milling machine, grinder, etc. A "one tool" man can, through this course, break away from his special machine and become a better all-around intelligent mechanic. He becomes an individual with a distinction from being a part of some particular machine tool. One should supplement this training by the course in mechanical drawing and a shop all-around machinist or mechanic can be more complete.

For those engaged in the finishing departments of the various woolen and worsted mills of this vicinity an evening course is provided. Machine work is supplemented here by lectures and discussions pertaining to many lines of the giving of color to many different kinds of wools and worsted fabrics. The action of reaps, water wheels, steam heat and cold upon wools in both or the combination of this fibre with others used in commerce is carefully studied. This course also helps a finisher to broaden his knowledge of textile fabrics.

Since the establishment of the school, there have probably been on the average sixty certificates awarded each year, and in several cases young men have taken several certificates by pursuing different courses during successive years. This demonstrates that the school is sufficiently ambitious to give during the winter evenings a very complete knowledge of the various branches of the industry.

The list of graduates from the evening classes shows most conclusively that the school has done for the progressive men who are daily at work in the shops and mills of this city and suburbs. It would be impossible to describe in detail the course just pursued, which the student has had to follow, but many Lowell young men, and the industry located here, which sustains them, both directly and indirectly, are indebted for the city.

Carlow expects to be in Adams within four or five days, and will immediately go back to work in the country.

LODGING HOUSES

BOSTON MAN BELIEVES CITIES SHOULD PROVIDE THEM

BOSTON, Feb. 5.—A week from next Thursday at the state house a hearing will be given on a bill providing for municipal lodging houses. It is House bill 915, and will have the support of a number of earnest men who have been trying for several years past to have municipal lodging houses established in this state, particularly in Boston.

Among these men is Chester R. Lawrence of 131 State street. He believes that such an institution as the bill provides for, is a necessity in every large city, though he does not decrie the good work done by certain charitable institutions.

MILL OPERATIVE

LAST LAP OF TOUR AROUND THE WORLD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—(Late and early and with every evidence of having enjoyed himself in various parts of the globe during the past 11 months, Edward Carlow, a cotton mill worker of Adams, Mass., reached New York yesterday on the last lap of a tour around the world, on which he started with scarcely any money and during which he paid his way doing work of all sorts.

Mr. Carlow did not make the trip a bet nor will he be paid for it on his return to Adams next week. Underfoot alone was responsible for his journey.

Carlow is 52 years old. He was

It relieves any case of stomach or bladder trouble, frequent urination, pain between the kidneys, etc. It is now claimed to be the method of curing chronic rheumatism because of its direct and positive action upon the blood and the eliminative function of the kidneys. It gives them life and power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and the uric acid from the blood, relieving the worst forms of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles. The treatment acts upon the blood, and it is this blood that is exclusively for relieving dyspepsia and indigestion. Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites cleans and enriches the blood. There is nothing better than Waldworn's Juniper Berries for the kidneys.

The prescription is safe and can be used at any time.

THE CHINESE REPUBLIC

Is Now Endorsed by the Heads of the Manchu Dynasty

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—The Chinese Republic is now endorsed by the heads of the Manchu Dynasty. The Manchus, who were the ruling dynasty of China for 268 years, have now declared their support of the new republic. This is a significant step towards the unification of China and the establishment of a stable government. The Manchus have long been a powerful force in Chinese politics, and their endorsement of the republic is a clear sign of their acceptance of the new order. This move is expected to bring about a more unified and stable China, and to end the long period of civil war and foreign intervention that has plagued the country for so long.

TWO GOOD GAMES

Of Basketball Played at Chelmsford

Two exciting games of basketball were played at the Chelmsford town hall Saturday evening. The Firemen defeated the Tigers by the score of 25 to 16 and the Pirates won from the Company K quintet of Lowell by the score of 25 to 16. Both games as the scores indicate were closely contested. The defeat of the Tigers was the first that the team has received this season. There was a large attendance.

BASEBALL NOTES

From the American and National Leagues

Outfielder Frank Schulte, of the Cubs, last week made it known that he intended to start training a fortnight ahead of the rest of the Cubs this year. With Mrs. Schulte he is planning to go to West Baden in the middle of February and remain there until the Cubs leave that resort to go to New Orleans.

The Boston National club has received the signed contract of infielder J. K. Kille and pitcher Bradley, late of Albany.

Second baseman Miller Huggins is slated for the Cardinals team's captaincy.

Manager O'Day has requested the Cincinnati critics to refrain from the annual winter criticism of chaining the pennant. "The fans will play ball on the diamond, not indoors," declares Hank. "And nothing can be gained by idle predictions."

If Mordred Brown really retires from base ball, Manager Chance will have to build up an entirely new staff of pitchers with "King" Cole as the nucleus.

If Johnny Kling carries out his announced purpose of wearing shin guards next season, Charley Dooin will be the only National League catcher to go without them.

Pitcher Marquard, of the Giants, is still on the stage. Richard declares he will close his tour in time to rest a week or so before reporting with the Giants at Marlin, Texas. "I'm picking up barrels of coin, too, boys, believe me," announces the pitcher. "It's soft, this stage stuff. And we believe him."

Herman Schaefer is the only Washington player who asked Griffith for permission to take the bath. While he has not given a definite answer, Griffith is inclined to send Schaefer to Hot Springs, as he believes the veteran would profit by the experience.

Manager Harry Wolverton has on his Highlander pitching staff four spitballs, a southpaw, an underhand thrower and a stinger.

The Red Sox will have but one southpaw next season, Ray Collins.

In Port St. Louis, the Browns' first-pitcher, center fielder, Bobby Wallace has one star about him without he may construct a good outfield.

Paul Gardner, of the Highlanders, says he is in good health, and hopes to be able to slow what he can do around second base the coming season.

Manager Grifflin has sent a contract to K. H. Hetherill, who is wintering near Chattanooga.

Jack Shorten, the veteran American League umpire, is spending the winter in San Francisco.

Pitcher White, of the White Sox, will, as usual, instruct the twirlers of the Central high school, of Washington, D. C., this spring, before leaving for Waco, Tex., to join his team.

Ty Cobb is learning to skate and enjoying the sport immensely. He put on skates for the first time in his life during his recent theatrical visit to Cleveland. Ty comes from the south where there is as much skating as there is in the lower region.

Infielder Eddie Porter, the Rochester recruit, and Shortstop Scott, of Youngstown, have signed Washington contracts.

So confident is Jimmy Callahan of equalling, if not bettering, his great record of 1911 that he is releasing all but the most phenomenal youngsters picked up last season to get trials in the outfield of the Sox of 1912 outfit.

Bill Cunningham, the Nationals' second baseman, is spending the winter quietly at his home in Schenectady, N. Y. He is attending a gymnasium where he takes light exercise, and he also takes long walks every day, in all weathers. He hopes to report in good condition next March and his many friends in the New England league wish him success.

Heine Zimmerman, hard hitter and utility man for the Chicago Nationals, has announced to President Murphy in a letter from New York that he has finished with baseball. He explains that he has a good business chance which seems too good to overlook. He therefore will retire, like Kelly did.

Shortstop Wagner, of the Pirates, is not going to retire just yet. He has announced his satisfaction with the 1912 contract tendered him.

Pitcher Richter has turned in his 1912 Chicago club contract with the statement that he is going to have the best year of his career.

The latest list of exhibition games of all the spring trips of 1912 has just been announced by the New York Giants, who will engage in 25 contests.

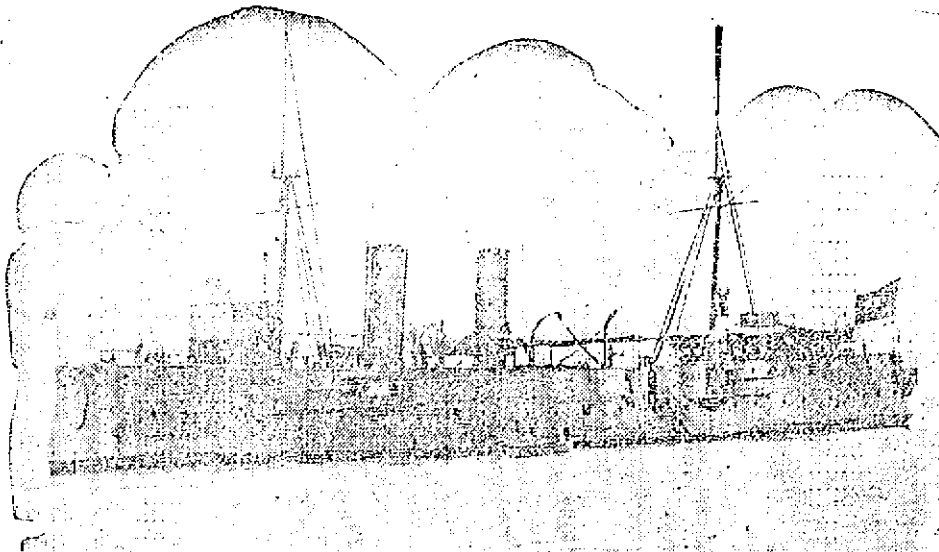

According to the Chicago Tribune, President Murphy is done with the "ivory-bat" proposition. It says: "A box of ivory bats of various sizes and shapes accompanied by samples of the finished product in the shape of buttons has been sent to the Cub manager, who is inclined to drop his plans for the manufacture of ivory cores for baseballs after ascertaining the large percentage of a given quantity of the fruit that would be unavailable for the purpose on account of defects."

Outfielder Wilbur Goode and Catcher Graham, formerly of the Boston Nationals, last week turned in their signed Chicago contracts. Goode is wintering in Florida.

Fred Tenney, one of the Giants and last year manager of the Boston "Braves" was last week released unconditionally by John M. Ward, the new president of the club. Mike Dooin is still holding out for more money. —Exchange.

Jack Warner, the veteran catcher, as freight. The chief cook aboard the Republic is King Bwana Tumbo, once king of a cannibal tribe in Africa. He admits that he used to eat human beings and says he would like another feast. The flesh of a man, he says, tastes like pig. King Bwana Tumbo is the one of the cooks (at least to the left in the picture). King Bwana Tumbo, which means chief with the big stomach, and which, by the way, was the title conferred upon a certain American statesman who went a-gun-formerly of the Giants, is said to be looking for a position as manager of a team in the paper United States league.

Infielder Rube Zander turned in his Chicago contract last week.

Clyde Milan, the fast little outfielder of the Washington club, is now being touted as one of the best outfielders in the American league. Milan made some plays last season that were wonders. Base ball critics say that he will be among the stars in the outer garden the coming season.

Catcher Joe Casey has signed in 1912 Detroit contract tendered him.

Tommy Connolly, the American league arbitrator and member of the League Rules committee, is to establish a school for umpires, of which he will be the chief instructor. Connolly believes that the school will fill a long-felt want, explaining that many young men of promise have broken out of the game, but have been seriously handicapped by lack of judgment and the rules of the game.

Ralph Glaze, the former all-round Dartmouth athlete and Red Sox pitcher, has decided to give up baseball for his athletic goods store in Waco, Tex. He will, however, continue his foot ball coaching.

The luxury of a good Turkish bath and the comfort of a hanging room in connection with their club house will greet the White Sox when they open the next championship season at Comiskey park on April 11. Work on the improvements is well under way.

Clark Griffith's efforts to obtain a good third baseman would indicate that he doesn't think much of Ray Morgan, "Midge" Foster or Jack Flynn.

ECONOMY PLANS

BY DEMOCRATIC HOUSE MAY AFFECT OUR WATERWAYS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Massachusetts waterways will probably suffer heavily because of the economy plans of the Democratic house. The indications are that the house committee on rivers and harbors will report a bill this session making appropriations for maintenance of existing projects only, and that no new projects will be authorized. The matter will come before the house in committee at an early date, and if the bill of the committee on the public buildings bill serves as a precedent there is little hope for its authorization. Substantial river and harbor appropriations.

CRESCENTS IN LEAD GIVEN NEW TRIAL

Hold First Place in the City League Andrews Was Convicted of Murder

In the City bowling league the standings show that the Crescents are in the lead. The Telephone team is a close second. As both teams roll this week a change in position is very probable. The Crescents are in third place and the Fairmount five are at the fourth place of the ladder. The Olympics and Alpines are in fifth and sixth places, respectively.

Letraon of the Olympics leads the individual standing with an average of 162.7. Wholen of the Fairmount is in second place, having an average of 162.

In the first six games rolled to date the Crescents and Alpines are the only teams to reach 1500 or more. The Crescents have reached 500 or better five times, Fairmounts four times, Crescents three times, Olympics and Alpines twice, while the N. E. T. & Co. have yet to negotiate that score.

The following is a list of the bowlers who have rolled nine strings or more with their averages:

INSANE MAN KILLED TWO

NORTH ADAMS, Feb. 5.—Suddenly becoming insane, it is believed, Andrew Cullen, aged 12, section foreman of a force of Hoosac Tunnel laborers, murdered John Baker, aged 28, and Edward Williams, aged 28, and Edward Williams, aged 64, members of his crew, last night, and later killed himself by shooting. The affair occurred at Baker's home.

Miss Lucy Drouin of St. Johnsbury, Vt., is the guest of her sister and brother, Mrs. Jeanne Lemercier and Mr. Arthur Drouin of Lakeview avenue. The young woman, who has many friends in this city, was received at the railroad station Saturday night, and was given an ovation by some 150 close friends. The party then repaired to the home of Mrs. Lemercier where a social hour was held.

Rev. Dr. Toomey and Mr. Dooley, who went with him to the vestry and then in the procession moved to the sanctuary they took their respective places in the line.

NEGRO LYNCHED FOR ASSAULTING AND ROBBING WHITE WOMAN

MACON, Ga., Feb. 5.—Charles Powell, a negro who assaulted and robbed a young white woman here Saturday night, was taken from officers and hanged by a mob early yesterday.

Frederick county officers had sought to prevent the lynching and had moved Powell from the jail, about which the mob gathered. Powell gone. The would-be lynchers were admitted.

Then followed a man-hunt in which all outgoing trains were watched. Members of the mob used automobiles and overtook the negro and his two guards in the railroad yards four miles from the city. The negro had been taken there to board a train for Atlanta.

He was tied to a telegraph pole and hundreds of bullets were fired into his body.
